1. Over 3,000 Chinese Communist troops arrived at Khatum (unlocated), Yunnan early in March 1952. Khatum is 40 miles from Nahpaw (97-39; 24-50), Burma, where the Burmese Government maintains an immigration office. Some wealthy Chinese from Khatum are coming to Burma because of the exorbitant Chinese Communist taxation.
2. Approximately 180 Lisus, Shans, and Kachins are undergoing military training at Paoshan (99-09; 25-07) for a period of one year. At first they were told that they would receive training in arts and crafts (sic) at T'eng-ch'ung (98-29; 25-01). However, when they arrived at T'engch'ung they were informed that the arts school was not yet completed and they were sent to Paoshan.
